Summary: The multiverse is in trouble. The Maelstrom has returned to conquer all of the universes, and only one boy can bring them together. Join Andrew and his friends as they travel to new universes, fight off the threat, and bring the universes together, only then will people be able to answer the call and save imagination once again.

1. A Mythran's Message

"Where am I?", a black-haired tween boy with brown eyes asked to himself.

"Is this a dream?" The boy was in a dark place with a black ground and no light.

Suddenly, a blinding white light shined in the area, blinding the boy temporarily a bit. When the light stopped shining so much and the boy could see again, a person taking the appearance of a clear light blue Lego minifigure with white glowing eyes and a light blue circle with a smaller glowing white circle in the middle on front of the minifigure's torso appeared.

"Hello, Andrew." The minifigure greeted to the boy whose name was Andrew.

"H-how do you know my name, and who are you?"

"Do not fear," the minifigure answered. "I am a Mythran."

Andrew stared at the Mythran with surprise and disbelief. "A Mythran? I thought they were gone when Lego Universe closed."

The Mythran suddenly looked down on the ground with grief in its eyes and replied, "Yes, Lego Universe was closed, but it made things worse."

"Lego Universe was closed and many players were heart-broken, including me. How could things get worse?"

"I have some explaining to do." But just before the Mythran could explain, it and the area that Andrew is in started to fade.

"No! You are waking up! Tell your friends about your dream, get ready for battle, and use your imagination!"

That was what the Mythran instructed to Andrew last before Andrew woke up with a start in his bedroom in the morning.

So it was a dream. Andrew thought. _I should probably get ready for school. _Andrew ate his breakfast, got ready, and rode his bike to school, remembering what the Mythran instructions were.

Author's Notes: Hey readers! Thanks for reading the prologue of my first fanfiction I will work on. Sorry if there are any grammar mistakes in the story, feel free to tell me about it through the comments. Finally, stay with this story as it might be a while before the next chapters come along. Thanks for your understanding and taking the time to read this prologue. I'll see you (not really) in the next chapter.

Disclaimer: I don't own Lego Universe or the Mythran. Lego owns those two.

2. A Dark Plan

On the route where Andrew takes to ride his bike to, another person taking the form of a Lego minifigure was hiding in the bushes as Andrew sped by on his bike without noticing the minifigure.

This minifigure was out of the ordinary. It was purple with red growing eyes, flame-like purple hair, tattered clothes, and what was really scary about it was that its left torso showed its ribs and its left arm was made of metal and has a blade at the end.

The purple minifigure watched more students going to Andrew's school. Then, using a teleporter, he teleported to a cloaked ship in the sky, unnoticed by people on the ground.

The minifigure ran to a control room where a big robot with one red eye, orange shoulders, and purple radiation coming off of it stood near surveilance screens, watching as people do what they normally do on a weekday. Unfortunately for them, though, this was not a normal weekday.

"What have you found?" the robot asked the minifigure.

"I found a lot of kids going to a school."

The robot knew that schools are breeding places for Imagination. "We shall attack this pitiful universe first, then we shall attack the other universes. Tell everyone to get ready to attack, stromling spy." The robot instructed the stromling.

"Yes, stromling mech." the stromling then ran off to inform more of its corrupted team.

"Soon we shall take over all of the multiverse and clense it of Imagination. Look out, universes, the Maelstrom is back.

Author's Notes: So that was the Maelstom that we were taking a look at and what they were doing before they attack. This was also the next chapter in this story. Dont forget that delays can happen so I'm sorry if these incoveniences happen. Also please note about any mistakes in this story in the reviews section, as I am still new to Fanfiction. Do not forget to check for a new chapter and I will see you (not really) next time.

Disclaimer: I do not own the Maelstrom, Imagination, the stromling, and the stromling mech. Lego owns them.
